NMT HAS JOINED FORCES WITH CACI
A MULTI MILLION DOLLAR DEFENSE CONTRACTOR

LAS VEGAS, NV – PR NEWSWIRE – September 30, 2009 – Noninvasive Medical Technologies, Inc. (NMT), an award-winning company engaged in pioneering highly advanced remote patient monitoring solutions, today announced that it has signed a non-exclusive Reseller Agreement with CACI International, Inc. (NYSE:CACI), a leading government IT provider and systems integrator.

This agreement gives CACI rights to market, sell and distribute NMT’s full suite of noninvasive medical remote monitoring products and services to federal, state and military customers in both the U.S. and around the world. The companies have also agreed to explore synergies and system integration opportunities to create vertical-specific bundled solutions to serve the first responder, warfighters, chem-bio defense, telemedicine and underground mining markets, among others.

“NMT is very proud of the extensive scientific discovery, research and development that went into producing what many agree is a portfolio of revolutionary medical devices capable of redefining the global standard of care in remote medical monitoring. In preparing to bring our disruptive products to market, we sought out industry leaders with strategic reach, influence and technological expertise in our key target markets,” explained NMT Chairman and CEO Ronald McCaughan. “Distinguished as one of the top 100 defense contractors in the world by Defense News, CACI is without question a powerful and important new ally for NMT in the national defense and homeland security space; and one that should help fuel significant revenue growth and shareholder value for our Company in the coming years. We look forward to achieving great things with them.”
